RUSSIAN OFFENSIVES SURGE AHEAD; NEW GAINS FOLLOW CAPTURE OF POINTS CLOSE TO THE 1942 LINE OF GERMANS

Strong Points South of Rostov Captured — Train Loaded with German Tanks and Other Military Supplies Taken — Russians Within 12 Miles of An Azov Port

By Natalia Rene
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
MOSCOW, Feb. 6.—(INS)—Russian offensives on the 500-mile front in the south surged ahead today in new gains following capture of points close to the German 1942 line.

The mid-day Soviet communiqué reported capture of a series of strong points south of Rostov and in this sector one Russian unit broke into a town on a rail line and captured a train loaded with German tanks and other military supplies.

(A Stockholm dispatch to Reuters in London said the Russians have occupied Bataisk, only 10 miles south of Rostov, and the Germans were preparing to evacuate the city. If this report is correct the Caucasus gateway is within the range of Russian big guns.)

"On another sector our units captured two large towns. Two enemy companies were wiped out and we took numerous prisoners and much booty," the communiqué stated.

"In the area of Krasny Liman (midway between Kharkov and Rostov) a battalion of infantry was routed from an inhabited locality. Mobile units on this front, operating behind enemy lines, annihilated the garrisons of three towns.

"East of Kursk several additional towns were captured by Soviet forces and 300 prisoners captured."

Soviet columns pushing towards the shore of the Sea of Azov in the direction of Yelisk were reported within 12 miles of the port.

Far to the north the encirclement of Kursk made steady progress. Russian forces several days ago breached the German 1942 line at a point only 22 miles north of Kursk, and today the southern claw of the Soviet pincers

Navy Refuses To Tell
—Of Solomon Island Battle

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—(INS)—A week long series of skirmishes between the American and Japanese fleets in the Solomon Island area of the South Pacific has been shrouded in secrecy for "justifiable reasons of strategy," OWI Director Elmer Davis announced today.

Davis corroborated Navy communiqués of the past week which threw down Japanese claims of sinking eight warships, merely credited the enemy with making a major effort to regain the Solomons, denied that a battle was raging and admitted that both sides have suffered losses.

Asserting that both sides still were sparring, Davis added: "I have talked with Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the fleet, and Secretary of the Navy Knox, and there are justifiable reasons of strategy for not saying anything more at this time."

"It is still a case of striking out with your left, again and again, feeling the enemy out. They are still sparring."

The OWI director admitted, however, that if the present situation continues much longer it will become necessary for the Navy Department to issue what he termed "a progress report."

MEETING PLACE ANNOUNCED

Industrial Union Council Holds Interesting Session

The Lower Bucks County Industrial Union Council met Thursday evening at Field's Hall.

Representatives of the majority of the organized shops in Lower Bucks County, and a delegation from Rohm & Haas and Badenhansen at Eddington were present.

Honor guests were George Craig, C. I. O. regional director, and Victor T. Uliveth, C. I. O. representative who spoke at length on organizing all non-union shops in Lower Bucks County.

President Stephen Brescia stated that "after the Fleetwings victory, it is now evident that other non-union shops can benefit by organized labor in this locality."

A committee was elected to attend all Bristol Borough Council meetings. The Lower Bucks County Industrial Union Council, C. I. O., has requested John Brophy, Washington, D. C., to place labor representation on all rationing boards throughout Bucks County.

The Brewster Aircraft UAW-CIO local at Hathero has requested to enter into this Council with a representation of approximately 3000 members.

When the family last heard from the soldier, on February 18, 1942, he was located in the Philippine Islands.

NEWTOWN, Feb. 6.—Newtown high school authorities and members of the clergy of this borough plan to inaugurate a system whereby high school credits for religious training will be given students.

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

Sellersville-Perkasie school authorities studied health problems of the schools at the monthly meeting of the joint board of the two towns.

This study was brought about by the mild epidemic of mumps in the two towns, and by the earlier smallpox scare. Upon request of the board of health in Sellersville and Perkasie, it was decided to suggest to the parents that all pupils over 12 years of age be vaccinated.

The request of the state board of health that the dental examinations now being given the grades be extended to the high school was also acted upon favorably.

Ed Hendricks, representing a beverage distributing firm at Pipersville, made Doylestown a much appreciated stop on his way to the County Seat's salvage committee.

Mr. Hendricks offered the salvage committee the use of two large trucks and five men, any Tuesday or Thursday for the purpose of collecting salvage tin cans and newspapers in Doylestown borough.

Featuring the sale of livestock at the combination auction held Tuesday afternoon on the property of the Rice brothers, near Solebury, was the disposal of an unusually large number of calves, for which the buyers seemed willing to pay good prices which ranged from $3.50 to $32.

Little interest was shown in the disposal of the other livestock, including the 144 pigs which had been offered. Only about 50 per cent of the pigs were sold because the prospective buyers did not seem willing to pay the prices.

Approval of the budget for the current year and the fixing of the tax rate took place at the monthly meeting of Sellersville Borough Council. The tax rate will remain the same, at 15 mills, 12 for general bonded purposes and three for bonded indebtedness.

NEED FOR LIFE-SAVING BLOOD PLASMA INCREASES ENORMOUSLY; RED CROSS IS ORDERED TO PROVIDE 4,000,000 PINTS

"American Blood Goes To War"
By Mrs. E. Paul Patton

Immediately following the attack on Pearl Harbor, the Army and Navy asked Red Cross for a greatly increased amount of blood to be dried into plasma. This year the need of this life-saving fluid has increased so enormously that Red Cross has been ordered to provide 4,000,000 pints as a minimum. This requirement is expected to be raised at any time.

The Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter, of which Bristol and vicinity is Region I, has a quota of 35,000 pints per week. To the layman this may seem a tremendous quantity. Such is not the case when it is understood that Red Cross has only 18 blood donor centers in the country at this present time, although a few additional centers will open as soon as arrangements can be completed.

Many people believe giving blood is a painful operation. Mrs. George F. Bauer, of Andalusia, who has contributed to this noble cause in telling of her experience said, "There is absolutely nothing to be afraid of, and it is a great satisfaction to know that in some way we can help save the life of perhaps our husband, son or sweetheart. I went to the blood donor center in Philadelphia, at 1424 Walnut street. Upon entering I was met by a 'Grey Lady,' who took my name and address. I was also asked if I had suffered any severe illness during my life. I replied in the negative. After I was seated a nurse took a specimen of my blood by lightly pricking my third finger. This I learned was to type my blood. Shortly after I was taken into a room and given a glass of pineapple juice. Another 'Grey Lady' appeared, took my hat and coat and led me into a room and asked me to lie down upon a cot. A nurse sterilized my arm with alcohol and cotton and rubbed on a drop of novocaine which she said would deaden the feel of the needle. The doctor asked me to make a clench-fist and keep opening and closing it which I did. I did not feel him inject the needle, neither did I realize I had given my blood until the nurse moved and put a compress on my arm, fastened it with a piece of adhesive tape and asked me to sit up. The doctor asked me how I felt and I truthfully replied 'Fine.' I was taken to the canteen and given a cup of coffee and a cookie. I was told to sit down and relax. When a half an hour had passed a 'Grey Lady' gave me my hat and coat. On the way out I passed the desk where I had given information about myself previously. The 'Grey Lady' wondered if I would care to donate again. I replied that I would, so in two months I shall be notified and I will not hesitate to answer the call immediately. The whole procedure only took 45 minutes of my time."

KENTUCKIANS TO STUDY FARMING IN BUCKS CO.

22 Young Mountaineers To Take Intensive Course At National Farm School

AID LABOR SHORTAGE

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 6.—Twenty-two Kentucky mountaineers from the unproductive sections of that state arrived at the National Farm School near here yesterday afternoon to take a two-weeks' intensive course in farming in order to orient them so they may alleviate the serious farm labor shortage in this section of the country. Others will arrive from time to time as courses are completed.

The National Farm School, in co-operation with the Farm Security Administration and the State Department of Public Instruction, begins today to train the first contingent of farmers from the mountain areas of Kentucky. In making this announcement, Dr. H. B. Allen, president of the school, indicated that this will be one way of helping to alleviate the serious farm labor shortage in the northeast and pointed out that the effort expended by these people in securing meager yields from the unproductive hills of Kentucky can be more profitably utilized in producing abundant crops from the fertile fields of Pennsylvania and other fertile areas of the north. To accomplish this, these farmers need to be oriented to the conditions and practices of this section of the country. Therefore, The National Farm School, with several other institutions in the northeast, has

The normal body of an adult person contains between 10 and 14 pints of blood. Depending on the weight a healthy individual can harmlessly lose a pint of blood. The body rapidly makes good the loss of that. A donor can repeat his heroic deed in two months or five times a year without fear of injury to his system. It must be remembered that in average wounded cases three pints are necessary. One wounded seaman burned beyond recognition at Pearl Harbor survived only after 22 injections. In the medical files of Red Cross are rapidly increasing numbers of case histories which attribute the saving of lives to blood

INTIMATE GLIMPSES OF SOUTH AMERICANS GIVEN

Miss Irma Belfer at Travel Club; Spent 3 Summers in Latin-America

P. V. FORSTER SPEAKS

A young woman from New Jersey who has made three lengthy sojourns in South and Central America, and a Bristol lawyer shared the February program of The Travel Club yesterday afternoon.

The guest speakers were Miss Irma I. Belfer, Atlantic City, N. J.; and Paul V. Forster, Radcliffe street. The former, telling of her experiences in South America, and of the customs and life of the people of Peru and Brazil, in particular, displayed costumes of natives of those countries; and the latter presented the subject of "World Federation."

Mrs. David Sheerer, Jr., was in charge of the afternoon program. She called upon Miss Jean Roberts, Bristol Township, who delightfully entertained with a piano solo; then introduced Miss Belfer.

Miss Belfer, who has been for years a student of Latin-American affairs, completed her undergraduate studies in Spanish at the New Jersey College for Women. Her education was continued at the National University of Mexico in 1938; the Facultad de Filosofía in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, in 1939; and at the University of San Marcos, Lima, Peru, in 1940. She teaches languages, and speaks Spanish and Portuguese fluently.

While studying in Brazil, Peru and Mexico, she made her home with outstanding families, and gained an intimate knowledge of the home life of these families and their friends. She also travelled in South America as a member of a group of Good-Will Ambassadors, and was received as a guest of the Brazilian and Peruvian governments.

In telling of the home life of young women in South America she mentioned that it is not customary for them to support themselves, although in the present times a few are becoming secretaries or saleswomen, etc. The usual means of livelihood for those girls who must make their own living, she informed, is through such tasks as seamstresses, bakers of sweets, and such types of tasks as can be carried out in the home. "There are no girls or women serving as waitresses, and this is true in other positions in which there would be contact with the public," the traveller stated. The great admiration that the young women of the Latin Americas have for their sisters to the North was mentioned, and more fully described when Miss Belfer told how those with whom she became well acquainted admired and inspected her wardrobe. In fact, when the boat upon which she was to return to the states, one season, was commandeered for transportation of service-

BOY SCOUT WEEK

This is Boy Scout Week. The whole nation pauses to salute the organization which has contributed so greatly to this World War as in the last, to the winning of the War. But Scouting does not rest on its laurels. The praises which Scouts so justly have deserved for their countless services to their country only spur them on to greater endeavor.

It is hard to see how War Bonds and Stamps could be sold, or vital materials salvaged, or all the varied forms of printed information distributed, without the untiring help of these public servants. But there are higher services ahead. Almost 400,000 Scouts are 15 years old or older; they may change ranks to the armed forces before the conflict is over.

The soldier who has been a Boy Scout makes a better soldier, and former Sea Scouts are officer material for the Navy, the Coast Guard and the Merchant Marine. The "Toughen Up! Buckle Down! And Carry on to Victory" theme of Scouting until the war ends will save lives through consummate training—and will make better citizens in the process.

Scouting is training for a way of life, the kind of life America chooses to lead, the kind for which her sons are fighting across the seas. On those fronts, and on the front at home, the qualities which Scouting stands for—courage and character, assure us of Victory and a lasting peace.

FARM VOLUNTEERS

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard is in position to know more about the actual details of farming than Manpower Commissioner McNutt, but as Hoosier politicians both have hopped cloids in the past as they shook the honey hands of men who actually grew crops and produced livestock.

Both should realize, and doubtless do, that their joint program to enlist 3,500,000 volunteer farm workers may look good on paper and sound reasonable in Washington, but when it comes to putting this scheme into effect, the farmers probably will laugh it out of existence.

Suddenly shifting millions of city and town workers from their jobs to farms may appeal to somebody as a move entailing no more difficulty than finding the necessary transportation. In reality, however, agriculture has become as much a test of skill as running a lath. A soda jerk might be induced to bag potatoes, but give him a problem with livestock or with the intricate treatment that hybrid corn must undergo, and he would be lost in the lower forty.

Somebody has suggested that Hollywood motion picture stars volunteer for farm duties, not as actual workers, but as entertainers who would go from place to place keeping the employees happy as they pitch hay or cull a flock of hens. Whether this proposal will be incorporated as a part of the Wickard-McNutt program has not yet been revealed, although it will be recognized as having New Deal touches.

It is about time that the sponsors of a movement to increase the nation's food supply talked to the farmers who will have to undertake the job.

Government officials who think the public is doing too much yawning should try to conjure up a vision of the ruckus that will follow any attempt to send American food to Germany or Italy after the war.

men, and she was forced to wait a week to another boat, she secured money to pay the additional expenses by auctioning off her dresses to eager young Peruvian women whom she knew. How the women have their seamstresses copy the styles of costumes they see in motion pictures from the United States, and the milliners pattern has been in magazines, formed an amusing part of the interesting talk.

Miss Belfer kept the attention of her listeners by explaining the strange manner in which the Brazilians brew their coffee and serve the same; telling of the great reverence and respect accorded those of the older generation; and interesting things in the family life of those to the South.

One high-light of the discourse was a description of a family fiesta she attended, at which she represented the son-in-law who was to be feted, accompanying the latter's son to the affair. Arriving promptly at the designated hour of 12:30 for the feast she found the hostesses shocked and surprised, as city dignitaries, according to custom in that country, did not put in an appearance until 1:45 when the feast was nearly ready to be served. "When they wish to designate that a certain affair will begin promptly at the appointed hour they add to the invitation, just after the hour, the words 'English Hour,' to show that after the custom of English-speaking people the affair will start at that exact time."

The courses of the feast consisted of Avocado and shrimp with a tempting sauce; bean soup thickened with green bananas; white fish served raw with lemon juice; turkey and ham; pal-meto (heart of palm) in vinegar sauce; sucking pig barbecued; a whole orange which custom dictated be cut and eaten with knife and fork; a seven-layer cake; coffee. Countless toasts were drunk, a Chilean wine being used.

Three brilliant and beautiful costumes from Mexico and Peru were displayed by the speaker, models being Miss Jean Roberts, Mrs. Carl Foch, and Mrs. Sheerer.

Mr. Forster, the other speaker on the afternoon program, was presented to the group by the club president, Mrs. E. Linton Martin. Mr. Forster ably presented the subject of "World Federation," telling of the Humber Resolution, the club members endorsing the plan, passing a motion requesting legislators of Pennsylvania to adopt the resolution.

Mr. Forster reminded that the idea of world union is by no means new. "I believe the world is nearer fulfillment of the vision of Isaiah (when war should be no more) than ever before," he commented. Going back to the period before World War I to the time of the "Balance of Power" theory or system, he led to the time when representatives of both the Democratic and Republican parties advocated a world police force. He told how the League of Nations introduced a new conception of peace—that its business of maintenance was shared by all nations. He pointed out the strong and the weak points of the League, recalling that finally the League had no power left with which to enforce its mandates.

The speaker considered how the radio and aircraft have bridged vast expanses of the seven seas with the result that peoples of all continents are our neighbors. "The world has become one large community," he reminded.

"People everywhere realize the need of establishment of some form of international law. All insist that if this is a people's war, a people's peace must follow." He considered how peoples of the United States live under four governments—local, county, state and national. "If America has been able to expand from 13 states to the vast country it is, in an orderly fashion, why can't the same be done in an international sphere?" he queried. "If world federation could be brought about, differences of countries would be settled in much the same manner as differences of states now are."

Minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. Franklin W. Wallin. The president, reminded of the March 5th meeting, a book review being scheduled. Mrs. Charles Peet announced a food sale for that day. Orders for certain items may be given to Mrs. Peet or Mrs. Roy Tracy.

Tea was served, with Mrs. William DuHamel presiding. She and Mrs. Harry Pope, chairman of the social committee, were assisted by members of the club.

HIGH SCHOOL FIVE WALLOPS FLORENCE HIGH TEAM, TAKING GAME BY SCORE OF 54 TO 31

Coach "Bill" Bartholomew's Bristol High basketball team won their ninth victory of the season yesterday afternoon as they walloped the Florence High School, 54-31, on the local floor. Bristol has been beaten three times.

The game was just as easy to win as the score indicates as the Bunnies had one of their extra good days and did fine work in passing and working the ball up the floor. Even from the foul line where Bristol has been deficient, the percentage took a big jump as the localites dropped in 8 out of 13 tries.

With "Johnny" Messanelli and "Kenny" Maag having one of their scoring afternoons, the Bristol passers kept "feeding" them the ball with the result that they scored 30 points between them while aiding offensively as well as doing a fine job at one of the guard posts was Mayo Scancellia who rolled up 8 more points.

"Inky" Ikin was high man for the losing quint as he topped his team with 10 field goals. The tilt was more one-sided than the match played on the Florence court when Bristol won, 35-29.

The preliminary game saw the Bristol junior varsity avenge an early season setback from the Jersey school's junior varsity as the Bristol boys tabbed a 35-27 victory. In the game at Florence, the Jerseyites were the victors, 31-17.

Tony Massi again led Coach Clarence Bartholomew's minions in the triumph as he scored five double-doubles and a pair of fouls for 12 points. Bristol registered 15 field goals in the game.

The Florence team had a bad afternoon from the foul mark as it scored but seven out of a total of 22 foul tries.

Delinquent Voters To Receive Notification

The work of addressing the large number of notices too, proved quite a lengthy task to the department's personnel, but it is certain the entire project, including enclosures, sealing and stamping, will be completed in a few more days when the notices will be mailed.

If the voters receiving the notices, fail to return to the Registration Commission the accompanying reinstatement cards with their names and addresses affixed within ten days of the date of the postmark of the notice, these persons' registration will be cancelled in accordance with the law. All voters cancelled for this cause will be obliged to re-register in order to restore their eligibility to vote at future elections. Robert F. Detweiler, who is in charge of the registration office has said it is hoped that the notified voters will spare themselves this inconvenience and return their signed reinstatement cards immediately. Then their original registration forms will be stamped accordingly.

In previous years it has been reported many persons ignored the notices, believing they pertained to payment of taxes. The notices have absolutely no bearing on delinquent or other taxes, and simply apply to retaining the registered person's right to vote, it is stated.
